On This Month in History: October

Emma Edmund

On October 30, 1938, Orson Welles, an actor and future filmmaker, struck panic into New Yorkers with his dramatization of H.G. Wells' The War of the Worlds. Even though there were several reminders that the CBS radio presentation by Welles and the Mercury Players was fake, many people still called the police, to seek help and advice on how to defeat the invading Martians.

Birthdays in this month include Julie Andrews on October 1, 1935, and Pelé on October 23, 1940. Julie Andrews is a British stage and film actress best known for her lead role in The Sound of Music. Pelé is a Brazilian soccer player who has scored more than 1000 goals and who first began playing internationally at age 16.

Era of the Bold-Faced Lie

Ronnie Dubs

“In times of universal deceit, telling the truth is a revolutionary act’.... George Orwell (apocryphal)

The era of the Bold-Faced Lie began with Bill Clinton looking intently into the camera, wagging his finger, and emphatically telling us “I did not have sex with that woman, Ms. Lewinski, not one time”. In hindsight it was open to interpretation as to the definition of sex, and if you say ‘not one time’ is it not a lie because you did it a dozen times? The democratic news media liars were only too eager to play along with this charade, at least until the stained blue dress showed up – after which they aided Hillary, attacking the truthful women, and wrote articles on the societal benefits of lying. Enter the era of the bold-faced lie.

Today those same partisan shills tell us that Hillary simply had a small two-hour case of pneumonia, which explains why she left the 9-11 memorial early, obviously suffering some kind of convulsions or seizure -- going not to an emergency room with real doctors as is Secret Service protocol, but to her daughter’s house, with a newborn present. Then just two hours later they cover her spontaneously strolling outside, on a street filled with extras, phony as a Hollywood sound stage.

Mrs Clinton is the perfect operative for this new era, just look straight at the camera and lie. “No, I never sent or received classified information”, oh well, “I didn’t know it was classified because no one else marked it so.” “Oh I can’t remember the training I received on National Security protocols because I was having blackouts from the concussions I received in unexplained falls.” She said “I only used one device for simplicity,” but told the FBI about numerous devices, some destroyed with a hammer and thrown in the trash. The 30,000 deleted emails were all cookie recipes. Whatever the situation, just lie. Caught in that lie, make up a new lie – knowing full well the democratic news media will help you sell it. No guilt, no shame, the ends justifies the means, global communism must march on.

The US Attorney General, Loretta Lynch, after her planned 37 minute, secretive, airport meeting with Bill Clinton is discovered, tells us they were just discussing grand-kids and golf. The only people who pretended to believe her were the news media shills who dutifully report her lies. In the era of the bold-faced lie, everyone who is already getting theirs is in on the game.

Same with FBI Director Comey, another liar who expects us to believe he hasn’t shared his decision not to indict Hillary with “anyone else and no other branch of government”, even as Obama and Clinton are mid-flight to a joint appearance. Just look at the camera and lie, no matter who you are and what high office you hold. The media exist to cover for you.

Ask Obama about the 400 million in Euros sent to Iran for hostages, or about another 37 billion supposedly secretly sent there in US gold and cash, and all you get are lies.

Lies of debt and obligations, and lies about race.

Lies of war and peace and the dangers we face as a nation.

Hard to trust anyone anymore, with so many Bold-Faced Liars out there. ■

Give Credit Where it's Due

Claire Modarelli

After reading months of Obama-bashing, I am stunned that no one has come forth to elaborate on the accomplishments of our President's administration. The NY Times, on Sunday, Aug. 14, offered a column entitled, "Obama found way to get things done."

"Blocked for most of his presidency by Congress," the article goes on to list the following legislation--a major part of the Obama legacy:

Affordable Care Act - national insurance coverage based on Romneycare in MA:

- People with preexisting conditions can't be charged more or denied treatment.
- There are no more annual or lifetime dollar limits on care.
- The marketplaces subsidize premium costs and out-of-pocket costs.
- A single risk pool is created, giving the individual and small group markets the same buying power as large group markets.
- New rules and regs stop insurance companies from making unjustified rate hikes.
- Women cannot be charged more than men.
- The amount insurers can discriminate price, based on facts like age, is restricted.
- All plans must have minimum benefits regardless of cost.
- Medicaid is expanded, meaning free or low-cost insurance for more Americans.
- Young adults can stay on their parent's plan until 26.
- Medicare gets a big overhaul--cheaper care for seniors and less costs for hospitals.
- Doctors, for the most part, will see their rates stay the same or, in the case of Medicaid, doctors will see their rates increase.
- Hospitals are incentivized to provide quality care over quantity care.

Dodd-Frank - an Act to promote the financial stability of the United States by improving accountability and transparency in the financial system, to end "too big to fail", to protect the American taxpayer by ending bailouts, to protect consumers from abusive financial services practices, and for other purposes.

*$800 billion economic stimulus package

*Clean power plan

*Fuel efficiency standards

*Same-sex hospital visitation

*Airline passenger Bill of Rights

*Rearview back-up cameras in autos by 2018

*Improved pay and benefits for federal workers, contractors, and home health aides

Let's not forget saving the auto industry, the killing of Bin Laden, and reinstating relations with Cuba -- enabling tourism which will benefit the Cuban people as well as Tampa's cruise industry. ■

Answer to the September Cryptopoem:

*A leaf was riven from a tree,
"I mean to fall to earth," said he.
The west wind, rising, made him veer.
"Eastward," said he, "I now shall steer."
The east wind rose with greater force.
Said he: "'Twere wise to change my course."
With equal power they contend.
He said: "My judgment I suspend."
Down died the winds; the leaf, elate,
Cried: "I've decided to fall straight."
"First thoughts are best?" That's not the moral;
Just choose your own and we'll not quarrel.
Howe'er your choice may chance to fall,
You'll have no hand in it at all.*
